EXVEILING OF THE MONUMENT AT WASHINGTON.

Richmond Blues and Norfolk City Guards...The Spofford-Kellogg Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19 .- The city is full of strangers to witness the ceremonies attending the unveiling of the statue of General George Thomas by the army of Cumberland,

A meeting of the Society was held this morning, and owing to the absence of General Sheridan, the President of the Society, on account of sickness, General Jeff. C Davis was unanimously selected to preside amid loud cheers. After the meeting adjourned a procession was formed and proceeded to the site of the statue, when the unveiling ceremonies were commenced. In the line of the procession were the Richmond Light Infantry Blues, of Richmond, Va., and the Norfolk City Guards, of Norfolk, Va., and the Alexandria Light Infantry and cadets of St. John's Academy, of Alexandria, Va. The procession passed the Executive Mansion and was reviewed by the President and Cabinet, after which it roceeded to the circle where the statue placed. The exercises were opened with prayer, after which "Hail to the Chief," by the Marine band, and the 'Star Spangled Banner' rendered by the male chorus of over one hundred voices, accompanied by the full Marine band and drum corps—battery "A" of the 2d Artillery, and battery "C" of the 3d Artillery, formerly commanded by General Bragg during the Mexican war and subsequently by Gen. Thomas. These batteries were aligned on Massachusetts avenue and M street, the guns facing eastward and were fired by electric wires, being immediately un-der the control of Lieut. Swift, of the Signal Corps, and all were under the direction of L. E. Gannon. The statue was then unveiled by the sculptor, and the grand bymnus was sung by the same chorus with the common accompanyment. The oration was delivered

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 19 .- In the Sente sub-Committee Investigation today Bernard Williams was recalled and testified that Jim Lewis paid his way to Washington, and while in Washington Governor Kellogg gave him all the money he wanted. Kellogg instructed the witness to offer Murray $5,000 to go to Canada and not testify.

In answer to Senator Cameron's question as to who was present when llogg told the witness offer Murray $5,000, the witness replied, nobody. You don't think that when a man doe that sort of business that he is foolish enough to have anybody present? Jim Lewis and Morris Marks tried to keep me from coming before the committee, Lewis said I would be well paid, and that they would send me away. Marks sent for me three times last Saturday to come to the custom house. I did not go, because I was afraid that they would kill me. I am satisfied that if I had gone I would not now be alive. The cross examination by Cameron developed the fact that the witness had been in the Confederate army, but had deserted, and was captured and pun-

Testimony as to the Cause of the Champion Collision.

PHIADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 18.-The investigation by the United States local inspectors of the steam vessel at this port into collision of the steamer Champion with the Lady Octavia was begun to-day. The officers and crew of both vessels has been summoned to attend, and inquiry is begun to-day with the testimony of the commander of the Champion, Captain R. W. Lockwood. This officer was detailed to scene at the time of the collision and the measures he took subsequently to prevent the loss of life. He did not know whether or not it was custom for his mate to take a man from the lookout to set the sail. If his mate was in the habit of doing so it was certainly unknown to him, (Captain.) He had not given any positive orders on that subject, but it vas an understood thing on the ship. He had been off duty about ten minute when the collision occurred, but had not got to sleep.

He heard the cry of "sail ahead" and when he got on deck he saw the ship approaching not more than one hundred yards away. He saw no light on the ship, and had no time to look for one. He rang the bell to stop his own vessel, but had hardly stopped her headway when the collisien occurred. Being asked the question where did he strike the ship, Captain Lockwood answered:

"We did not strike the ship. The ship struck us just abaft of stern and just abaft of bow about six o'clock. Eight feet abaft; that's as near as we can judge, because we had no chance to see. She struck us at about an angle of forty-five degrees. She went into cur ship about twenty or twenty-five feet, within twenty feet of the foremast. Captain Lockwood then described by means of models the positions of the vessels, and stated that the holes on either side of the Lady Octavia were of the Champion. Engineers and seamen of the Champion also testified. Latter witness was asked whether his vessel ran into the Octavia or the Octavia into the Cnampion, but was unable to give a positive answer on the point.

made by her passing through the bow

The examination was then closed, but will be resumed in the morning. The survivors of the steamship crew are present before the court of inquiry, and their testimony, which will occupy several days, will be presented.

LATER. PHILADELPHIA, Pa, Nov. 19.—The first witness examined to-day before the United States Local Inspectors of steamboats in reference to the recent collision off Delaware breakwater was the second mate of the Champion. This witness said the Champion had four men on each watch; one of these was kept at the wheel and another on the lookout. Three men were required to set sail. They took men from the lookout to help, provided the weather was clear. There was no standing order on the steamer against taking the lookou; Frank Jackson, who was at the wheel of the steamer that night testified that just before the collision he saw Paul Hand, the lookout, engaged with two others, in setting sail. This witness altered the steamers course by order of the Captain five or even minutes before the collision. Frederick Richards, a seaman on the Champion, testified that Paul Hand, the ookont, went aloft to loosen the topsail just before the collision. No one that witness knew of was on the lookout while Hand was aloft. Soon after this he heard the alarm, "sail ahead." This warning was given by the lookout, Paul Hand, but the witness could not tell what part of the steamer the cry came from. It was forward somewhere. Immediately after the cry of 'sail ahead" the collision occurred.

These witnesses and Charles Ehler, mother seamen, all testified that it was he Octavia that ran into the Champion. None of them saw the collision. They did not look particularly. J. S. Mitchell, a passenger on the Champion, testified that, before the steamer sunk, he looked for a life preserver or anything else that would ford him assistance, but could find defended the prisoner. O'Sulliyan served in the regular army during the war, and was wounded at Gettysburg. He is a man of middle age, of a florid complexion, with deepset eyes and a dark beard and moustache. His expression of face is not unprepossessing. He was working as a journeyman hatter at the time of the murder. It was alleged by the prosecution that the couple had not lived happily for many years. Their chief difference arose from the fact that Mrs. O'Sullivan suffered her father to invest in his own name money which the prisoner sent home while in the army. On the soldiers return he found the property beyond his control. Their unhar piness drove him to drink. At about thalf past twelve o'clock on the day of the occurrence he gave a letter to a grocer in his vicinity to read for him. It was about a mortgage on his house, 1914 Leithgow street. When it was read to him he remarked to the grocer that he blamed his wife for all his trouble. About an hour later the neighbors heard children crying in the house and then Mrs. O'Sullivan was seen to walk slowly from the house to the alley with her hand to her throat. The neighbors hastened to the alley and Mrs. O'Sullivan was found lying upon her face and and was carried into her house by three women. O'Sullivan stood at the door of the kitchen with a razor in his hand and made room for persons to enter. He acknowledged having cut his wife's throat. He surrendered the weapon with which he had done it and told an officer who arrested him that he would make no effort to escape, but would go with him. To one person he said that his wife had thrown a towel in his face when he asked for and that he then got the razor and did the cutting. He also said that he had had trouble with his wife for ten years. A postmortem examination of the body of Mrs. O'Sullivan disclosed a wound on the right arm, another on the left arm, a slight one on the side of the face and one, five inches long by two and a middle of the neck to the left, severing the jugular vein. Several hours were spent in obtaining a jury, after which Assistant District Attorney Read submitted the foregoing allegations in his opening ad-

Frederick Lutz, the first witness, testified that he was a neighbor of the O'Sullivans, who had seven or nine children. He heard the row preceded the murder, but thought it one of their usual quarrels, until one of the children ran out, crying: "Pappy's cut Mammy's throat." Witness then cut Mammy's throat." Witness then entered their house and found O'Sullivan standing in the door brandishing a razor. He insisted upon witness taking the razor and handing it to an offi-cer, saying: "I've cut my wife's throat with it." Witness had often heard O'Sullivan say to his wife: "I'll mur-der you yet." In prior quarrells he was heard to say: "Your father has $700 of mine." Crossed examined, Lutz swore that he thought O'Sullivan was intoxicated at the time of the murder and that he was wild and frenzied when drunk. Mrs. Susan Swickey testified that she accused O'Sullivan of murdering his wife, immediately after the act, and he replied: "I know I did, and I ought to have done it ten years ago." When his daughter said: "Oh, Pop, what did you do it for?" he replied: "You know she tantalized me so." They often quarreled and he said he would kill her.

WINSTON, Nov. 18 -Last Saturday night we had a fine rain, which quieted the stormy dust clouds, cleansed the streets, purified the atmosphere, and served as a cooling, soothing, healing balm to the sore and dust beaten eyes of our citizens. Sunday was a most lovery day, but it is now warned cloudy. Trade is good, and our streets are thronged with men and wagons. A series of daring attempts at house robbing occurred in our quiet towns last week. On Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights houses were forcibly entered and attempts at robbery made, but in every case but one, the thief was foiled by the timely awakening of some member of the family. Saturday night the burglar entered through a window, the dwelling of Mr. Jesse Riggs and appropriated Mr. R's entire suits of clothing and $40 in money, ransacked the entire house from garret to cellar and retired leaving the front door open. Wheeling Register. "Can the Democrats elect the next President, Senator Davis?" saida Register reporter to that gentleman yester-

"Yes, and ought to do it. The South or former slaves States', electoral vote is one hundred and thirty-eight, New York, thirty-five, Indiana, fifteen. It takes one hundred and eighty-five to elect. We have one hundred and eight-eight, three more than necessa rp. Hayes was counted in by one marity. Then there is New Jersey, nine Connecticut, six; and Oregon, three. All are as likely to go for us as not. Indiana is regarded as a reliable Demo cratic State, In 1876 Tilden carried i by five or six thousand majority. I the Democratic majority was about fifteen thousand and the State has been steadily increasing its Democratic majority eight or ten years. New York is Democratic. Seymour carried it for President in 1868, and Tilden in 1876. Seymour was elected Governor during the war. The present Governor is a Democrat. At the recent election, with a divided party on the Governor, we having two candidates and the Republicans one, we elect our Lieutenant-Governor, etc., which shows we can carry the State in 1880, if we are united, and nominate a good, strong, accepta ble candidate.'

"Who is the man?" "Ex-Governor Horatio Seymour, I feel sure, is our best and most available candidate. He is now by far the ablest and strongest man in New York, and, perhaps, in the country. Senator Bay-ard, I think, is the next most available candidate. "What will be the leading question in our next Presidential campaign?" "Centralization of power in the hands of a few, is the great question between the Democrats and Republicans. Par-ties under the lead of Jefferson and Hamilton divided soon after the formation of our Constitution: Hamilton for centralization and strong National Government; Jefferson for the people, a distribution of power between the National Government and States. The Democratic party represents the principles of Jefferson, the Republican party those of Hamilton."

Meeting Col. Ben. Wilson, the t ber of Congress from this district, in the city, yesterday, the Register asked him what he thought of the suggestion of the Washington Post of Seymour and McDonald as the Presidential tick et next year?

"Seymour and Voorhees would be a strong team," said the Colonel, quite emphatically. "Gov. Seymour is a very able man, a pure man, and a sound Democrat, and he is recognized by the whole country as a thoroughly sale man. He is a statesman in the best sense of that term—talented, broadly educated and far seeing. Voorhees is able, eloquent and wonderfully magnetic. He is the idol of the people of Indiana. He is emphatically a man of the people, and they regard him as be-ing, in an especial degree, their counsellor and champion. Seymour and Voorhees would be irresistable.'

"Do you regard Tilden as being ou of the race, Colonel?' "Most assuredly I do. But I believe we should name a candidate who will e acceptable to Mr. Tilden, and I have no doubt Gov. Seymour would be.' "The objection has been made, Colonel, that Gov. Seymour is old and eeble. How is this?" "Gov. Seymour is not old-being still some years under seventy-and he is anything else than feeble, in mind at least. Everything he says, with either pen or tongue, is remarkable for the vigor of thought and clearness of statement. The only misgiving I have about the matter is as to the ability of the Democratic party to induce him to

THIRD DAY OF THE INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION.

Large Crowd in Attendance-R. B. Elliott, of South Carolina, Delivers the Address.

Yesterday was a cold, bleak day. At about twelve o'clock it began snowing, and before night we had quite a snowy time of it; but notwithstanding this fact, a large crowd were in attendance on the colored folk first Industrial Exposition.

Quite a number of our white citizens vere present and taken as a whole the day was pleasantly spent and everybody seemed to enjoy themselves. Among the prominent white persons noticed by the reporter on the grounds, were Col. Thomas M. Helt Pre of the North Carolina Agricultural Society, General Basil C. Manly, Mayor of Raleigh, Major Wiley, W. M. Boylan, Esq., Rev. Mr. Bailey, George H. Snow, Esq., Oct. Coke, Esq., J. B. Batchelor, Esq., Col. A. W. Shaffer, W. S. Mason, B. F. Moore, John D. Pescud, N. B. Broughton and numerous others. At about half past twelve we repaired to Agricultural Hall where a large crowd had already collected. Soon after order was restored. Mr. Williamson, colored introduced the speaker of the day, R. B. Elliott, of South Carolina who spoke at considerable length. He said this was the first occasion of the kind in the history of this country where a State agricultural fair was held under the exclusive control of colored people. He congratu-lated his colored hearers that the black man was not going backward, but was steadily advancing, and that within 20 years they would perhaps overtake the whites, etc. He was pleased to note the fact that such substantial aid had been rendered to this enterprise by the white people of this city and State. He said that it had been less than fifteen years since his race had been made free; that fifteen years ago the negro, as a class, had no advanta-ges; that they even did not have the privilege of reading the Divine law and could not investigate the truths of the holy scripture. He said the colored people knew not when they or their children were to be sold, and perhaps forever separated. That the lash was applied to their backs at the master's will, and congratulated the whites as well as the blacks that those days had forever passed away. "For," said he, "I

He said that before war the rich man controlled the land, the money and the patronage. That they put a padlock upon the mouths of who would have spoken and an iron hand upon breasts that would have beaten for better purposes and better things. He alluded to the exodus movement, and said that the reason a great number of colored people had left the South was because of the exhorbitant charges made by store-keepers whom they had to trade with on credit, and with whom their employers had made the arrange ments for that credit. He predicted that unless that kind of thing was stopped that the movement would take still greater foothold, and might extend hrough this entire Southern country. He did not appear to encourage the exodus movement, but said he would tell those condemning the plan that these people were compelled to have food, and that the way things were managed in some sections, their daily labor would hardly supply the laborer with his daily bread. He did not mean to intimate that this was the case with all the Southern planters, or a majority of them; and advised his hearers to accept employ-ment of honest men, who would fulfill their promises, rather than go on a wild goose chase with some dishonest party who offered greater inducements but who never fulfilled them.

'Abide by your contracts," said he: "save your money and invest it in land; buy a cow or a pig, and when you are fully fixed upon your little piece of land your pig will have grown into a hog, and maybe your cow will have had a calf, and then you will be not only a free holder, but a stockholder!" "But don't," said he, "buy more land than you need—the uncultivated acre

York. At the inquest held by Fire Marshal Sheldon yesterday in the cause of the Cannon street fire, Foreman Fisher of 11 Engine testified that when he enered the building, the hall of the second story where the Cohens lived, was in a blaze, and that he was oblige i to stop about four steps from the top of the first stairway. He held the stream, which he directed against the ceiling at first to prevent the fire from going up stairs. Afterward he directed it into the second story rooms. The partition between these rooms and the hall was partly burned away, and the door of the rear room opening into the hall ap-peared to be open or partly burned away. After the fire was subdued in the second story he went up stairs to the fourth story, and there he found the four bodies in the hall bed-room. Until that time he didn't know that any persons were in the house.

Foreman Fisher thought the fire in the second story had been burning a long time before the alarm was sent out. It did not take twelve minutes to check it after the arrival of the firemen Patrolman Peter Moran testified as to how he had rescued Fireman Lynch. Heinrich Pfaff, a baker, of 291 Riving ton street, who rang the alarm, testified that when he arrived at 80 Cannon street he saw a light in the upholstery store on the ground floor, and a man going in and out. There was no other person about, ner were there any persons at the windows. George King, proprietor of the upholstery store, testified on Saturday that he took time to dress himself after he was awakened by a noise, like the banging of a door, and that it was not until he had been some time in removing the goods from his store that he saw the body of a woman (Mrs Burbischel) lying on the sidewalk. Since, therefore, he was already at work (if it were he) in his store when Pfaff arrived, and since the hair of two of his children carried by himself and his wife was burned when they rushed down past the Cohen's apartments, the evidence is considered very strong that fire had been burning a long time before the alarm was given or before any person, even King, was awakened. There are two mysteries about the fire independent of its origin; what noise was it that so opportunely awak-ened King? and what man was it that Fireman Lynch met in the third story and told to follow him to the scuttle? This could not have been King, be cause from his apartment in 78 he was obliged to descend to the second story of his part of the double house before he could secure egress by the common stairway. Another reason why it could not have been King is that he and his wife were able to pass down the stairway while the experienced firemen was driven to seek escape up stairs. The only man known to have been in No. 80 on any floor that night was Joseph Rueck, whom Lynch saw hanging from wirdow sill before he entered the house.

TALMAGE'S OPINION

ALL MANKIND GIVEN A FAIR CHANCE FOR HEAVEN.

Henry Ward Beecher Offers Some Practical Advice-Bishop Clark's Idea of Beggars.

There was a great congregation at the Brooklyn Tabernacle Sunday morning, and Dr. Talmage was on his mettle. The bright autumnal sunshine permeated every nook and corner of the church, and warmed the pastor and his hearers into a renewed life. The hymns were sung with spirit. Talmage's reading of the Scripture had a breezy freshness, and Professors Morgan and All played with an unusual snap and energy. Before commencing his sermon, Dr. Talmage said he had an important notice to give out. They were going to have special services every night during the week, and he hoped that the people would furn out in good numbers. "Ah, my friends, we needed God so much as we do now. Let me tell you that many in this congregation are so near the kingdom that the slightest impulse in the right direction would drive them in." Then he told them that the Lord was blessing them spiritually and temporally, and he was looking for the time when a thousand souls would be converted

With one stride the preacher bounded to the edge of the rostrum and shouted: "My spirit shall not always grieve." Then repeating the text in a more solemn tone, he paused to see if any of the congregation were frightened. This part of the seruon was in the imperative mood. "God means to give you a fair chance for Heaven. It shall never be said that Satan imposed upon any man. Wherever there is a moral shipwreck or spiritual catastrophe God rings a warning bell—'Beware! Be-ware!'" The words "Beware" were hissed out with a guttural force which startled even a deaf old gentleman with an audiphone, and raised a natural anxiety as to the effect such a vocal performance would have on the preach-er's bronchial tubes. But Talmage ral-lied, shook off his high tragedy and told his hearers confidentially that he was very cautious when he first began to preach, but that he had got over all that now, and said what he pleased, re-gardless of consequences. Everybody nodded approvingly at this open con-

Dr. Talmage stiffened himself, stood as solemn as an undertaker at a fune ral, twiddled his thumbs and roared out: "I stand between the living and the dead. God strives with us in silent and turn over our account books, and we ask are our accounts right with God. We turn to the safe where our valuables are, and we ask, 'Is my soul safe with God? will it be safe when the wrath of God shall twist New York, London, Brooklyn and Paris with its tongue of flame, as an ox twists a grass blade in its mouth?' Ah! God's spirit came to us then as a spice gale from Heaven, and we cried, 'God have mercy on our soul.' In the store, with the cy on our soul.' In the store, with the letters on the file, samples of goods all about, everything secular there, yet the Holy Spirit has touched the heart. In the parlor we have seen folks going to church, and asked, 'What use of all this praying, preaching and singing?' But by a sudden impulse we have ejaculated a prayer to God. Ah! we did not hear the heavenly guest stepping on the floor, we did not guest stepping on the floor, we did not see him standing there with a full chalice, which, if we had tasted, would have thrilled us with life." In telling preaching of the Gospel, Dr. Talmage propounded the problem—"What is preaching?" Answering it himself, he asked, "Is it scientific expiration? If so, let us have philosophical apparatus on the platform and talk about air currents and Faraday's theories of electrical polarization.' For a final effort Talmage planted his lank body in the form of an inverted letter V, and stretching his arms and mouth to their fullest extent, he screamed: "Preaching is hauling men out of their sins. If it does this, it does all; if it does less than this, it is a failure." The preacher said nothing as to the probable verdict on his own preaching, judged by this standard. Th spoke of the 100, 500, 1,000, 2,000 sermons being piled up and piled up on the last day, against hearers who had not surrendered to God, explained the doctrine of atonement, and proclaimed emancipation to all the enslaved of earth.

A Man Who Fought with Napoleon BALTIMORE, Md., November 17.-Colonel John Frederick von Werder died in this city last night at the Aged Men's Home. He was ninety-nine years and ten months old. Von Werder was one of the Old Guard and was with the First Napoleon in his retreat from Moscow. He witnessed his wedding with Maria Louisa, entered Paris with the allied armies in 1814, served under Blucher at Waterloe, assisted in organizing the Greek insurrection in 1820, and fought against Abd-el-Kader on the plains of Algeria. Colonel von Werder was born in Prussia on January 1, 1790. In 1796 he joined the Prussian army and at the battle of Jena was made prisoner by the French, after wards joining that service. In 1807 and 1808 he fought in Spain, and in the lat-ter year married the daughter of a Spanish grandee. He took part in the battles of Aspern, Elchingen and Wagram and was made aide-de-camp to General Murat. In the spring of 1812 he was appointed aide-de-camp to Marshal Ney and marched to Russia, enter-ing Moscow with Napoleon. At Bere-sina he was twice wounded, and after his recovery again joined the Prussian army. Between the years 1816 and 1827 he lived in Greece and Turkey, and from 1827 to 1836 served with distinction in Africa. In 1849 he came to this country with his wife and children and invested his money in a nursery in Virginia. In 1852 his property was destroyed by a flood. Three of his sons died in the late war, his wife and daughter died in 1864, and last summer the veteran was compelled to seek the shel-ter of the Aged Men's Home. For five years he has been nearly blind Divorcing at a Rapid Rate. Connecticut will be in the way of speedily losing its reputation as the land of steady habits if its people keep on getting themselves divorcing at the rapid rate they are doing at present. At the present term of the Superior court at Hartford, fifteen divorces have been granted. As it is presumable that these divorces were granted upon only the most substantial grounds, they point to a good deal of unsteadiness in the matter of habits on the part of a of Connecticut. There has never been a baking powder placed upon the market in this country

GEO. C. JORDAN, Editor and Prop'r.

THE colored people's fair now in progress in this city nails to the shelf another of the "Stalwart's" lies concerning the bulldozing of the negro. This exhibition is a success, and we are glad of it. They are having a good time, and expect to more fully enjoy themselves before the exhibition closes. Our white citizens have very properly aided them in this work, and they are coming to realize that the Southern men-their old masters-are their best friends.

THAT the American people can beat the English in any of their specialties has been pretty thoroughly demonstrated, San Francisco and Chicago have shown their capacity to out toady London and Liverpool.

MR. HAYES, in a gush of confidence, has assurred Mr. Public Printer Defrees that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for a second term in the White House. It is not reported that Mr. Defrees asked him to nurse a boom, or permit his friends to hoist his name. Thus far no one has ventured on such a suggestion.

THE official returns do not in the least change the result in New York. The pluralities are as previously stated, Cornell's is something over forty thousand. Hoskins' is about one thousand two hundred. Seymour, the Democratic State Engineer, is the only one of the elect who has a clear majority. Kelly's vote approximates nearly to eighty thousand.

THE potency of the press is in no way more significantly shown than in its power to create events. The admitted influence of journalism upon the public thought is not merely in the conviction following upon resistless argument, or in persuasion of appeals to the passions or interests of men. Comparatively few of the readers of a newspaper pay much heed to the comments and speculations of the editor. The great mass find it interesting to them solely in its news. Practical people prefer facts to fancies, the concrete and actual to the abstract, the real to the ideal. And most of us are practical, at least to that extent. The logic of facts is more cogent than any syllogism.

There is a Roman proverb whose purport is that rumor sometimes makes events. The truth of the saying is often conspicuously verified in journalism. Persistent prediction is a most effective means of bringing a thing to pass which, but for the iteration of the prophet, would have slumbered forever in the limbo of nonentity.

Some of the New York journals are od of making history. When the managers propose to get up a "boom" of any kind, political or otherwise, they send some trusty scribe, charged with his facts beforehand, to the designated fiield, when he forthwith indites a letter of commanding length, and of as much particularity of statement as is safe, setting forth a vast and widespread amount of public sentiment in favor of the movement. The real basis may consist only in the casual and off-hand expressions of a few persons actually communicated with, whose utterances are in answer to leading questions, along with the imagined views of some other people who are presumed to be too good-natured to put up in a denial. Straightway the winged words of the correspondent fly throughout the country, and thousands fall in with the supposed new departure of opinion, and commit themselves to it completely and irrevocably: These are some of the triumphs of imagination; and thereby we learn how, contrary to a common maxim, saying a thing is so will make it so.

Grant's Income.

Cincinnati Enquirer Interview. "Won't it be bard, General, for you to content yourself in Galena?"
"No, I think not. When I was in Japan I went up in the mountains and stayed ten days almost alone. It was a novel experience for me, but I en-joyed it. I shall not be able to do much more than make Galena my home after awhile. It is a good place to live now, as on my income I can live there much cheaper than in a large city, and live better than most of my neighbors then. My income is not large enough for me to live as I would like, and I will have to find something to do after awhile. I have two farms near St. Louis, and some real estate in Chicago, which, if I could sell, I would feel bester off. My land in Chicago is thirty-one acres, just outside the western limits of Chicago. Eleven years ago I was offered $1,500 an acre for it, and now, after paying taxes on it all that time, I couldn't get $250 an acre for it. But I did better in some other investments, or I could never have traveled abroad as long as I have. I had stock in the Adams Express Co., which went up; and I bought right after the fire in Virginia City, Nev., Union and C. & C. stock when it had gone down from $700 a share to $130, and made $50,000 or $60,000 there."

The Chairmanship.

Washington Post. Mr. Blaine holds that his sagacious friend William E. Chandler is the man who should succeed the late Zachariah Chandler as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Mr. Sherman is profoundly impressed with the importance of putting a Western man on the vacated upholstery. Conkling, who speaks for self and Grant, wants his man Cornell chosen. As far as it is a question of relatives fitness, Chandler holds the age. He would make a chairman after the deceased Zachariah's own heart. Which is saying all that need be said.

Who Takes Care of Frauds.

Washington Post. A Republican Newspaper in Connecticut has discoved that Mr. Hayes is rapidly augmenting in popularity on account of "his hold on God." The organ mistakes. If Hayes has increased in popularity lately, it is more likely because of his hold on the devil, who takes care of all frauds.

Thomas W. Harvey, of Princeville, Ohio, has related the following to your correspondent, which he said he received directly from Senator Wade's own line: aversion to gunpower. Buffalo Express, Rep.

"Death to the Union!" exclaims Robert Toombs Mr. Toombs should have killed the union during the late war. It is remarkable that he should have postponed it so long.

federacy, is ready to do so again, and proclaims "Death to the union." It has been remarked, we believe, that the secession sentiment of the solid South was confined to the village of Okolona, in the nation of Mississippi.

Philadelphia Times, Ind. It is ascertained that Mr. Bob Toombs, of Georgia, is still in favor of breaking up the union. This discovery will be a perfect delight to the organs who have about used up Jeff Davis as an issue. Toombs can now expect to see himself running for President or Senator or something or another in half the Republican organs of the country.

Boston Herald, Ind. Bob Toombs, of Georgia, is one South-ern man who did not get his bellyful or fighting in the late unpleasantness. He was always a rantankerous fellow, and has never been appreciated up to his own estimate of his value. He seems to enjoy the unreconstructed condition, and to take special pride in going down to his grave an enemy to the union. His voice has not been significant since the war.

New York Herald, Ind. We trust that our readers will not be alarmed by the dispatch sent by General Toombs to Chicago in reference to "the death of the union." Toombs is a frank, eccentric person, who holds a position in the South something like Wendell Phillips in the North—doing what he pleases, saying what he pleases, nobody disliking him and nobody caring particularly what his opinions are, except that they are frank, fresh, original and generally amusing. General Toombs is in no position to speak for the Southern people on any subject, and an effort to quote any of his freaks as an exponent of public opinion would do the South great injustice.

AN INTERVIEW WITH TILDEN.

The Defrauded Presidential Candidate Speaks His Mind Freely. Jersey City Herald.

Now, that Mr. Tilden seems relegated to private life, it will do him no politieal or personal hurt to refer to a few things of the past. In a conversation a year ago last August at the United States hotel, Saratoga, between Samuel J. Tilden, the defrauded President, Smith M. Reed and the writer, we asked Mr. Tilden what he thought of John Sherman. Without hesitation, but in slow and thoughtful words, Mr. Tilden replied:

"Mr. McDermott, John Sherman's a Sherman's name was dropped and the conversation turned to the Electoral Commission. It was asked if the act had his approbation when it was before Congress. His answer was:

"I disapproved of the act, as it was utterly unconstitutional. But my wishes were not consulted, nor was my pinion asked regarding the bill by any of those having it in charge-not even Mr. Hewitt sought me about it; and, therefore, I could not interfere to oppose it.'

We remarked, "Edmunds 'cooked' the bill, Mr. Tilden." Mr. Tilden answered:

"I blame Thurman and Bayard. They consented to the passage of a bill that they knew was unconstitutional. They eated me and put that other man in the White House.'

"Why," we inquired, "did you not take the oath of office at New York? You could have acted as President there. If General Jackson had been in your piace he would have gone to Washington."

At these remarks Mr. Tilden fingered leg across the other, and after a few seconds contemplation, said;
"Perhaps I should have done so, but then we wou d have had a civil war. Grant was ordering treops to Washington.' That seemed but an impudent menace," we said. "Grant would have counted without his host should he have dared to use troops against the choice of a majority of the people,"

"Against a man who was elected President by a majority of three millions of the white voters of this country," joined in Mr. Weed. "Would it not have been better to have risked civil war," Mr. Tilden was asked, "than to have bowed to such humiliation and disgrace?'

"Perhaps so," said Mr. Tilden, "but I am not to blame. The people should not have suffered it. The personal wrong to me is of little importance. It is the wrong committed against the people. It is the wrench, the violence to our system of popular government that is grievous. The people should not have stood it."

General Hooker and the Recreant Soldier.

Cincinnati Enquirer. I served on General Hooker's staff for nearly a year, and on one occasion was assigned to duty as Judge Advocate of a general court martial before which a private soldier of a Michigan regiment was brought, charged with desertion.
The evidence showed that the prisoner had deserted three times, on the last occasion "in the face of the enemy." The court martial sentenced him to be shot, and the record of his trial and conviction was forwarded to General Hooker for his approval. A short time subsequently General Hooker came to my quarters, which adjoined his own, and "Bond, in this case against Private—what do you think had better done? Are there no exterminating circumstances?"

"None that I know of, General. He has deserted three times." "Isn't there something in the case upon which you could base a recom mendation of mercy?" Not a thing. The proof against him was positive and not denied, and the witnesses say further that he was a worthless fellow and a constitutiona', coward.'4 "That is just the thing," said the General positively. "The man is constitutionally a coward, and you recommend to mercy on that ground. I'll tell you what's the matter, Bond, his mother is at my quarters begging for her son's life, and I want to spare him." In accordance with this suggestion the recommendation for leniency was written, and a few minutes thereafter a feeble old lady with silver gray hair and a tearful face was bowed out of the General's door by the brave old hero, and turning away, she exclaimed with uplifted hands, "God bless you, Gene-ral Hooker." During the heat of debate on a cer-

After duly considering the matter, Tombs sent a friend to reconnoiter the ground a little.

"I knew what was wanted," said Wade, "the minute the fellow came in, and was on my guard."

The friend asked Wade what he thought of dueling as a mode of set-thing disputes between gentlemen. "I think it is a mighty good way," said Wade. "It is the old and only chivalric method."

"What would you do in case Robert Toombs should challenge you."
"I'd fight him, and kill him too, damn

FROM THE HON. WM. TAYLOR, STATE SENATOR OF MASSACHUSETTS. Messrs. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen,-Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen,—
To say that I am grateful, is only a poor expression of my feelings, but it is the best word I can use, for I feel it in every sense of the word. I have been a great sufferer with skin diseases for the last twelve (12) years.
My head and face being covered with sores,
I could not rest with the burning heat and itching of the parts affected, and was conmed to my house for weeks at a time. My disease has been called Eczema, of a most aggravated type, by many physicians, but I doubt if ever fully understood by any of them. It was more like a combination of several skin humors. I have spent much money seeking a cure, and in 18of I went to Europe, and consulted some of the best money seeking a cure, and in 1867 I went to Europe, and consulted some of the b st physicians in London. I received temporary relief only, for in the spring it would break out again as bad as ever. When I came back to Boston, I was told, by many friends that Dr. —— (whose reputation for the cure of those diseases was of the mighest order) could cure me. I waited on the doctor; he prescribed for me. I followed his advice for six months, and I can sarely say, thout any improvement. I tried other physicians and among them Dr. ——, of East Boston, and Dr. ——, of city proper, but all to no purpose. They did me no good; their remedies were so ineffectual that at no time did I feel that a cure would nat at no time did I feel that a cure would esult from them.
I have swallowed five hundred arsenic offis, 5.20 grain, and taken bottle after bot-le of internal remedies, besides all the ex-ernal applications I have used, but the ef-ect was the same. I became satisfied that could not be cured, but might be kept rom getting worse.

Now, about three months ago, Mr. Mee-lan, a gentleman, well known to floation han, a gentieman well known to Boston people, called my attention to your OFFICERA, and promised wonderful results if I would only make a trial. He told me of his own experience with it, and so persevered on me that I went with him to a drug store and beginning the large boxes of the support two and bought two large boxes of CUNCURA, and some CUTICURA SOAP, and commenced to use it according to the directions. There was so much humor lodged within the sain, that as soon as I commenced the use of CUTICURA it came to the surface and festered, and it safe to startly set of cuting the sain. ntil vast quantities had come out and reatly intensified my sufferings for about wo weeks. But I did not mind this, as I that I was going to get rid of the humor in I saw it coming to the surface in such c quantities. After the first two or e weeks use of this remedy, I was greatcouraged by a gradual lessening of the mmation of a number of painful sores, early, faithfully, and cheerfully food the directions to the letter, feeling week nearer a cure, until at the presumment, after three months' use of Cu-Ba, and register the constant and ent moment, after three months' use of CUTICURS, and twelve years of as constant suffering as was ever endured, I can say that I am cured, and pronounce my case the most rem with able on record. I have been so elated with my success that I have stopped men on the street who were afflicted, and told them to get the CUTICURA and it would cure them. This is why I am so grateful to you, for I believe it to be the best and greatest discovery of the age, and that it will cure all who are suffering with these diseases. I may add that I took no internal medicine but the CUTICURA RESOLVENT.

as low rates as anybody. -Major J. P. H. Russ died at his home in this city yesterday at 10 o'clock in the fifty-eighth year of his age. Maior Russ was born in Granville county, this State, but removed to Wake county about thirty years ago. He was once Secretary, of State, during the war; was Wake's representative in the State Senate in 1864; and was the Democratic candidate for County Treasurer at the last election. Major Russ was a prominent citizen, and his death is to be sorely regretted. He had a host of friends, among them the NEWS, who offer their heartfelt sympathy to the afflicted family in their bereavement. -To-night, at Tucker's Hall, Mr. John A. Stevens and company present "Unknown." We have never witnessed this performance, but from the notices of the press, wherever it has been produced, we think we can safely recommend it to the people as a first-class piece. Every one should go, as they doubtless will. Here is what the Boston Courier says: "The representation of mental infirmity on the stage leaves a more painful impression than the portrayal of any other of the woes which afflict humanity. Whatever the cause, it is certain that it is difficult for any actor to create a marked impression in the role of a madman. Mr. John A. Stevens, who appeared at the Howard this week, succeeds better than most performers in holding the mirror up to nature in such an impersonation. In-deed, he was so truthful in his delineation as to create a breeze of surprise among our play goers. He must have made a careful study of those in whom reason has been dethroned, and in his way showed himself to be a thorough artist. The play selected for this exhibition was one written by himself, en-titled "Unknown," which gave evidence of great skill in dramatic con-struction. The situations are all tellirg, the movement quick, and the dialogue and act are very clever."

New Church.

The NEWS announced some time since that the members of the Primative church had purchased the old Masonic building on the corner of Dawson and Morgan streets, with a view of erecting a church. The purchase has been completed and the deed given and soon the old building, erected seventytwo years ago, will be removed and a handsome church erected on the lot. The building committee is composed of the following reliable business men: Len H. Adams, J. P. Gulley, Drewey Partin, Ransom Gulley, William A. Penny and J. A. T. Jones. The erection of the church will be a great improvement in that portion of our city

Miss Linkhaw On Trial.

umberton Robesonian. The largest crowd that ever stood in our Court House, was present last Mon-day morning. The prisoner, Miss Linkaw, was conveyed to the Court House in a buggy, accompanied by her m ther, who sat with her in the prisoner's box, while her sister, Mrs. A. C Melke, sat with her husband inside of the bar, and to the right of Col. W. Foster French; of the 250 good and lawful men who were summoned, very few fa led to answer to their names When Court adjourned for dinner, the jury was made. When Court was called in the afternoon, the witnesses for the State were called and sworn. Mrs. Effic Rancke was present when the shooting took place and Drs. McMillian & Lewis stated that said wound was the direct cause of his death. Having proved these two points, the State rested the case, and the witnessess for the defense about forty in number were called. Several of them testified to the good character of the prisoner, prior to the shooting. Able counsel was employed on both sides. Our excellent Solicitor Capt. McIver, assisted by Alf Rowland, Esq., prosecuted, while Col. French conducted the defense. It is certainly one of the most remarkable cases that has ever been upon our docket. The evening session was spent in the examination of a few witnesses. We had hoped to be able to give the result of the trial in this week's paper, but notwithstanding that a night session was held on Monday night, as we go to press this (Tuesday) afternoon, several witnesses have not been examined, and we would not be surprised if the case will occupy three days.

What Physicians at Home and Abroad Think of the Seven Springs Iron and Alum Mass.

In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chlorosis, Anæmia, Nervous and Muscular Debility, Nervous and Sick Headache, Dysmenorrhea, Menorrhagia, Amenor-rhea, diseases of the Kidneys and Blad-der and such like organic or functional disturbances, I know of no remedy upon which I can rely with more certainty of satisfactory results than the "Seven Springs Mass."

W. F. BARR, M. D.,

Abingdon, Va. I have found no one single remedy to rield such satisfactory results as the "Seven Springs Mass." In the treatment of Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhea, Anamia, Chlorosis, and for Chronic Eczema, I find it invaluable, associated with appropriate topical treatment. GEO. T. HARRISON, M.
